The Need

Increase the available workforce of teachers committed to Alaska. Less than half of Alaska's teachers are prepared in-state.

The Challenge

Invite Alaska students to explore education as a potential career.

Educators Rising Alaska is prepared to be a part of the solution. Join us.

What your district needs:

- Superintendent and Principal support
- Dedicated time in the high school schedule for CTE Pathway courses
- Committed, inspiring teacher-leader
- District support for implementation: participation in professional development, use of curriculum, designation of resources

Join now to share your insight and experiences as we expand the program.

Why Educators Rising is right for Alaska now:

Quality: Designed for today's high school students with a new, Alaska-specific 4-course CTE Pathway that leads students on an examination of the roles of learner, leader and teacher of others. Students who complete the pathway can join the workforce as a para-educator or continue on at a university taking coursework that will lead to teacher certification.

Connected: Spans Alaska's vast geography with a robust national virtual community to connect students and teachers with colleagues and ideas.

Comprehensive: Statewide effort that draws students from diverse communities and supports efforts to make best-fit matches to increase years of service in Alaska's schools.

Flexible: Districts choose a delivery model that matches existing structure and available resources.

Intentional: Coordinated support beginning in high school, extending through college and into the profession from the UAF K-12 Outreach office and the national Educators Rising organization.
